

The beginning of an era of major job transitions. The outflow of employees has become a management issue for companies

In recent times, "job changes" have become "a positive option for career development", leading to an unprecedented activation of the job market. People are constantly weighing the pros and cons of staying within their current company versus exploring new opportunities, seeking better stages in their careers.

The competition for talent has intensified, and companies are focusing more than ever on external hiring. For skilled professionals, attractive job offers are pouring in one after another. As a result, the outflow of employees from within companies has accelerated, becoming a serious management issue for many organizations.

It is no longer a time to focus solely on retaining employees within internal departments. The key to future management will be to prevent the outflow of exceptional employees and make the most of the talent within the company.

Today, companies are no longer in a position to choose their workers; rather, they are the ones being chosen by talented professionals. This is why, now more than ever, companies need to pay close attention to internal talent, nurture them with care, and foster a culture where "employees want to keep working." The urgent task at hand is to reform management awareness and improve the human resources system to become a company that employees want to stay with.

What at

To address the new challenge of the outflow of employees, companies must put a stop to it through the use of "Internal Scouting"

Many companies are focusing on external talent, actively sending scouts offering attractive conditions and positions that align with the candidates' aspirations, skills, and experience. However, not all companies are providing the same level of attention and support to their employees. When looking internally, there are employees with skills and motivation beyond expectations, and there are also attractive internal positions that are not visible to employees. While many companies are working on visualizing these opportunities, the current reality is that they are not fully utilizing the data that both the companies and employees truly need to see.

If this continues, not only will the utilization of internal talent remain underdeveloped, but the outflow of employees will only accelerate. To prevent this, it is crucial to act quickly and implement "accurate and real-time visualization of talent data and internal positions," "actively promote opportunities for employees to encounter positions, such as internal job postings," and "direct recruitment from internal positions." Diverse "Internal Scouting" activities are essential.

By continuously providing career development opportunities for employees, companies will ultimately prevent the outflow of employees and enhance their organizational value.

A new service by BizReach launched to prevent the outflow of employees with "Internal Scouting"

A new service is launched to prevent the outflow of employees with "Internal Scouting," a service only BizReach can provide. This service is called "Internal BizReach" and it has three key features.

By utilizing the market data accumulated over 16 years of supporting Japan's job market and the AI technology that boasts the highest number of patents in Japan<sup>(1)</sup>, the service automatically generates "(1) internal resumes and position requirements based on market standards, without the need for manual work" using AI. Through BizReach's expertise and systems in talent matching, it easily facilitates "(2) the creation and maintenance of a 'database of internal talent and positions' that meets the needs of both the company and employees" and "(3) activates internal job postings and direct internal recruiting, enabling a type of internal matching that has never been done before."

This allows for the same high-precision scouting activities that BizReach is known for, but within the company itself. By providing employees with attractive options and opportunities, this service helps create a company where employees want to continue working. It is a revolutionary service that prevents the outflow of employees and creates an environment where employees can thrive and experience more human-centered ways of working within the company. This is what "Internal BizReach" is all about.

Appendix

Similar to the structural transformation of the retail market caused by e-commerce<sup>(1)</sup>, BizReach pioneered the concept of "Direct Recruiting" by creating an online career networking platform, which raised the transparency and efficiency of the professional recruitment market in Japan

DX of Retail Market

DX of Professional Recruitment Market

The financially attractive and unique business model targeting professional job seekers<sup>(1)</sup> is the foundation behind the scalability of BizReach

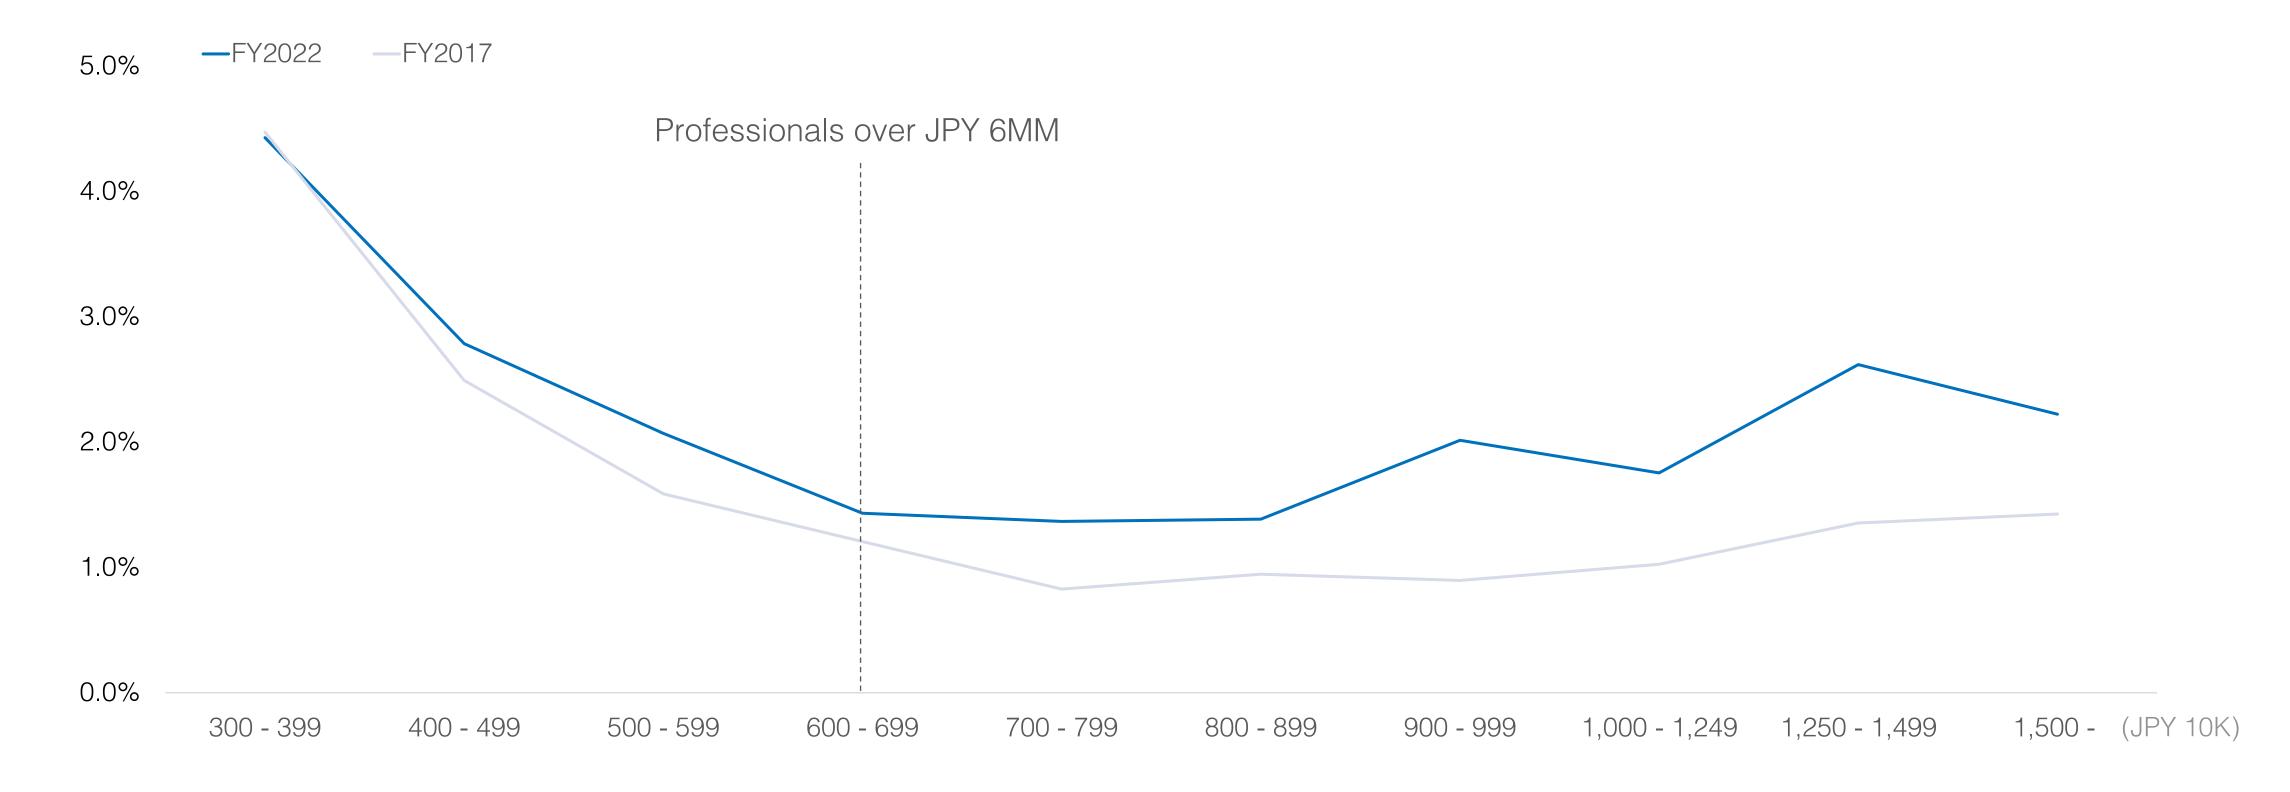

BizReach net sales consists of Recurring Revenue (access fee to BizReach platform) and Performance Revenue (fee received once placement is made). This allows financial stability during economic downturn

	Recurring Revenue <sup>(1)(2)</sup>	Performance Revenue
Direct Employers	¥850,000 / semi-annual	15% of the candidate's expected annual compensation in the new position <sup>(3)</sup>
Headhunters	¥600,000 / semi-annual	20-30% of the placement fee the headhunter receives from the employer

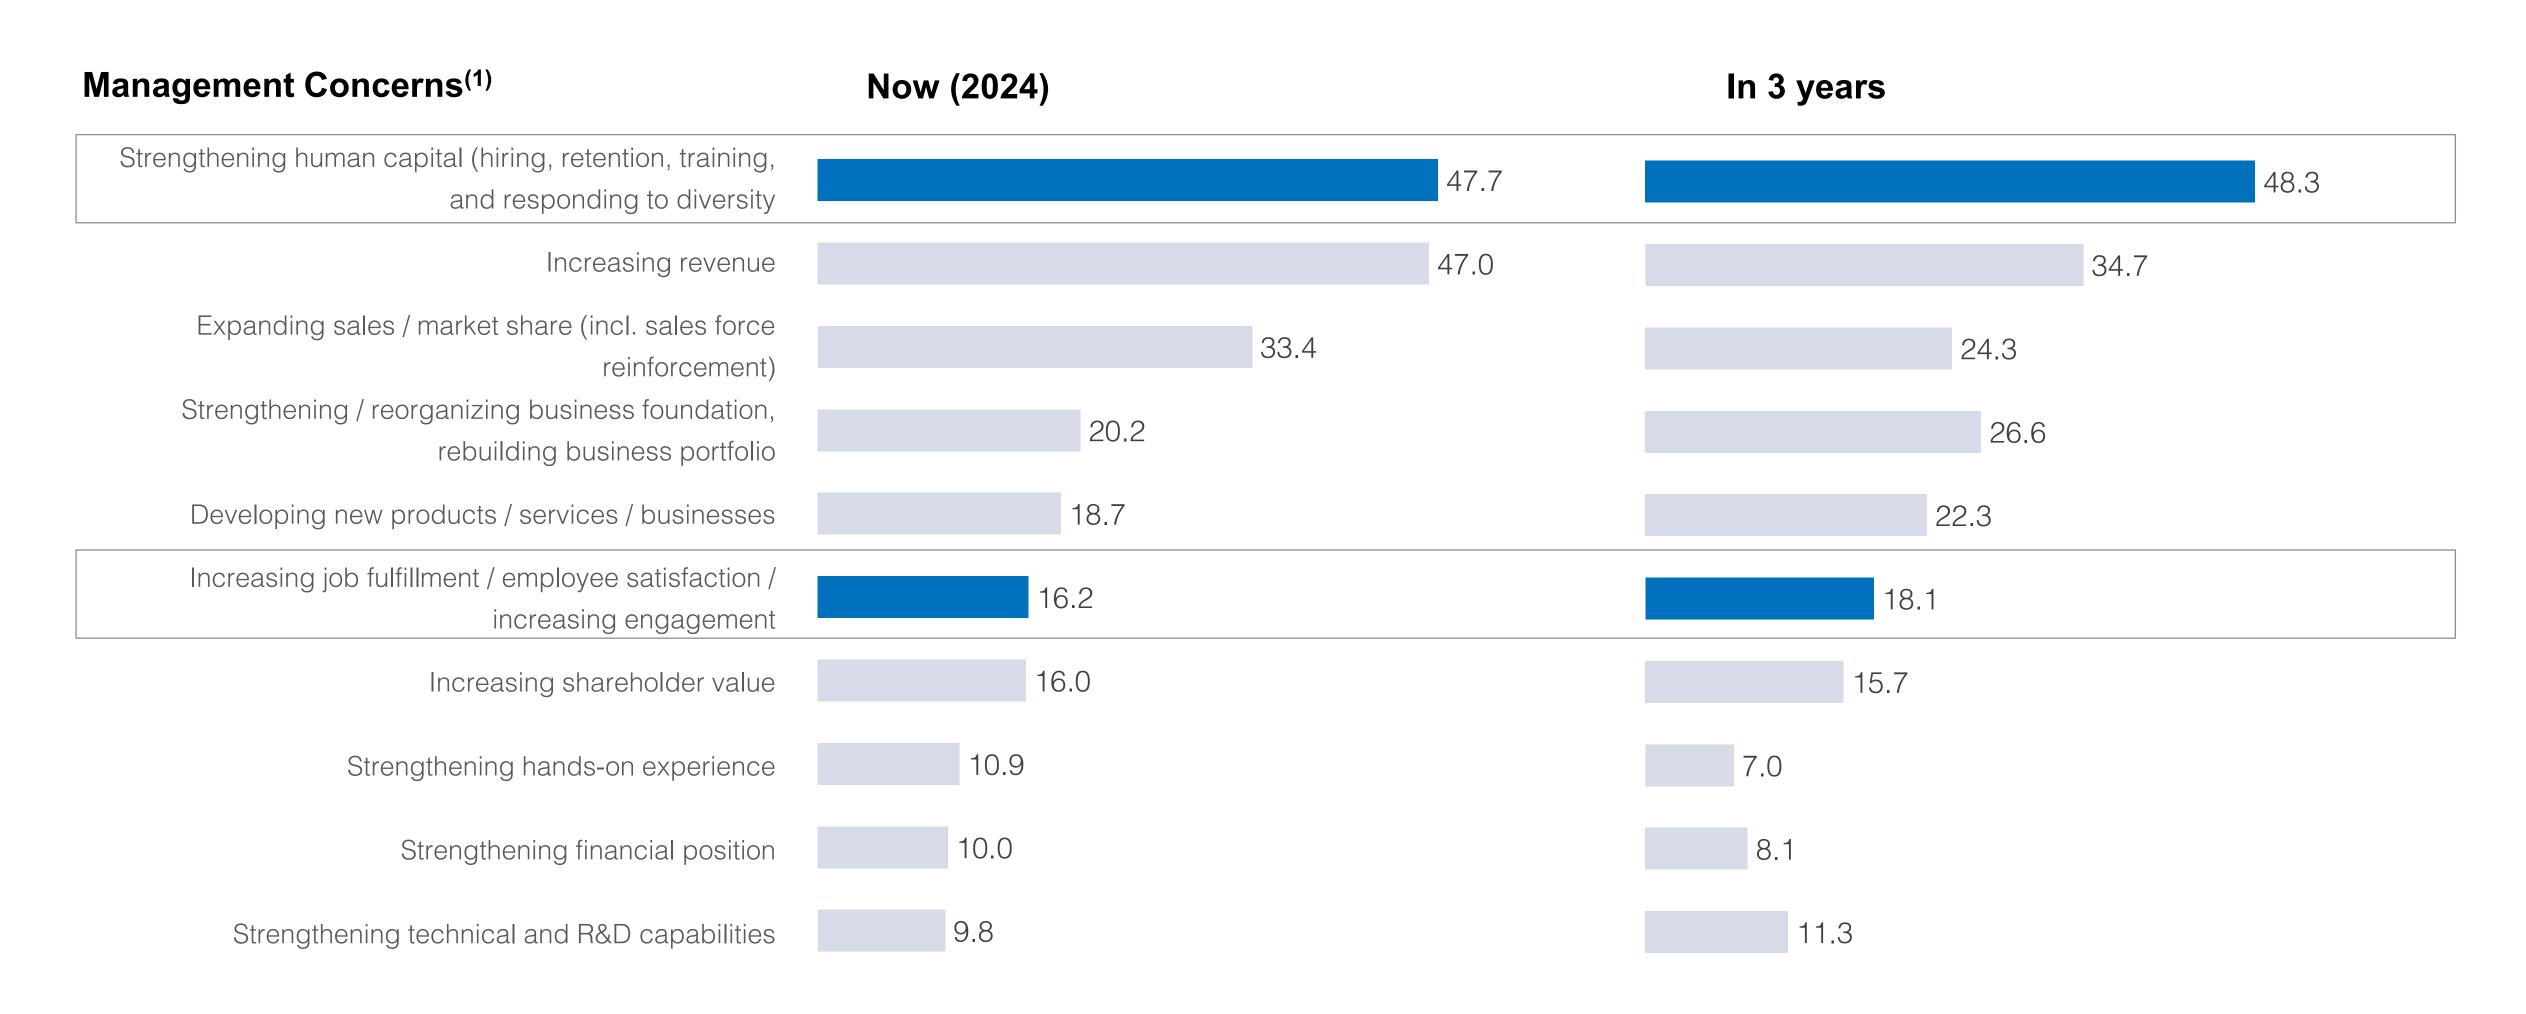

Notes: (1) Tax excluded (2) Standard pricing plan (3) Calculated as fixed monthly salary multiplied by 12 plus base amount of bonus calculation multiplied by the number of bonus payment months for the previous fiscal year

Although no significant changes observed in total full-time job changes pre/post COVID-19, labor liquidity within the professional segment has increased. We expect further expansion of mid-career recruiting as demand for professionals increases

Job Change Ratio based on Income<sup>(1)</sup>

Strengthening and applying human capital are top management issues by Japanese companies

Japan has a high portion of employees with long tenure. Other countries are shifting its labor force to segments of higher labor demand

Global Comparison of Employment Ratio by Length of Service<sup>(1)</sup>

Why Increased Labor Liquidity is Required

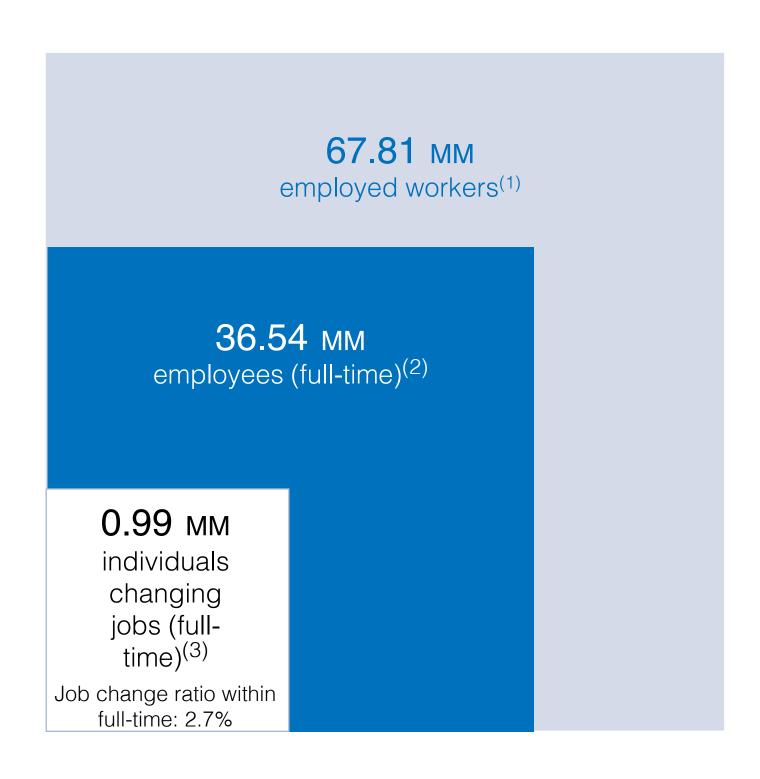

- Mid-career hiring required to address decreasing work force caused by shrinking working-age population and new graduates entering the work force in the long term
- Professionals required to address changes in the business environment and business models, and to build a diverse and inclusive organization
- Miss match of supply and demand in labor force as industry structures change. Shifting labor force to segments of higher labor demand required
- Labor productivity drives wage increase

Japanese recruitment market is undergoing a structural stage of expansion due to the ongoing changes in workstyle, which will increase liquidity in the Japanese labor market going forward

Significant Room for Job Mobility in Japan

2024

Acceleration of Workstyle Shifts in Japan

- Conventional workstyle no longer sustainable due to mismatch of corporation and worker life spans
- Performance-based workstyle with clear job descriptions accelerates the job change movement
- "Direct Recruiting" becomes essential for employers as the war for talent accelerates
- The shift to remote work caused by COVID-19 is expected to further drive this movement

Increased job mobility is the biggest growth driver. We will therefore increase our penetration within the professional population, and accelerate new client acquisitions and increase wallet share of existing clients
